

Syllabus Statement for Spring 2026

Your rights under federal laws:

Section 504 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973/ADA. Westminster University is committed to providing equal access in higher education and to creating a learning environment that meets the needs of its diverse student body. If you are a student with a disability, or you think you may have a disability, we encourage you to meet confidentially with the office of Student Disability Services, to begin a conversation or request an official accommodation. You can email disabilityservices@westminsteru.edu or call 801-832-2272. You can find more information, including how to request accommodations, at <https://westminsteru.edu/student-life/student-disability-services/index.html>

Course Accessibility Statement

Westminster faculty aim to create courses that are inclusive in design. If you encounter barriers, please communicate directly with your instructor to determine if there are design adjustments that can be made. You may also consult with Student Disability Services, which works with students with disabilities and faculty members to identify reasonable accommodations. Faculty can consider creative solutions as long as they do not compromise the intent of the learning activity or assessment (statement adapted from Wood and Madden, "Suggested Practices for Syllabus Accessibility Statements," 2022).

Types of Accommodations Available to Students

As a beginning step to assist the student in advocating for their needs, here are some examples of accommodations that are frequently provided. For a full list of the types of accommodations available to students, be sure to contact Student Disability Services (disabilityservices@westminsteru.edu).

- Common Accommodations: Extended time on assessments; testing in an alternative location; breaks during exams; calculator or laptop access; access to audiobooks or other alternative text formats; accessible specific classroom seating/layout; accessible specific housing; and ASL interpreters.
- Assistive Technology/Other Services: Auxiliary aids and services can take many forms, such as audio recordings, text-to-speech programs, voice recognition software, etc., depending on the individual student's needs.

Title VI

Westminster University's Equal Opportunity policy prohibits discrimination or harassment based on age, color, disability, ethnicity, genetic information, military status, national origin, race, religion, pregnancy and related conditions, childbirth, gender identity, sex, or sexual orientation in any of its programs or activities. Westminster University is committed to providing a safe and non-discriminatory environment for all members of the University, including those whose gender identity and/or expression differs from the sex assigned to them at birth. Harassment and discrimination based on gender identity or expression are prohibited by the University and will not be tolerated. This includes the refusal to address an individual by the gender they identify with. If you experience or witness prohibited conduct or any form of discrimination or harassment, you should contact the Dean of Students, Kellie Gerbers (kgerbers@westminsteru.edu or 801-832-2494).

The equal opportunity policy and procedures can be accessed from the Student Life webpage. As an instructor I am required to report any information I obtain regarding discrimination or harassment to a university official for further review.

Title IX

Westminster University is committed to providing a safe learning environment for all students that is free of all forms of discrimination and sexual harassment. Westminster University has staff members trained to support members of our campus community who have or may be experiencing any of these incidents.

Please be aware all Westminster University faculty members are "mandatory reporters" which means if you tell me about a situation involving sexual harassment or gender discrimination, I must report that information with the Title IX Coordinator. Although I must make the notification, you will control how your case will be handled, including whether or not you wish to pursue a formal complaint. Our goal is to make sure you are aware of the range of options available to you and have access to the resources you need. Supportive measures are non-disciplinary, non-punitive individualized services offered to restore or preserve equal access to Westminster University's educational programs and activities.

Supportive measures offered by Westminster may include:

- Academic accommodations
- Increased campus security measures
- Access to integrated health services
- Assistance with connecting to community resources

If you are seeking a pregnancy accommodation, please reach out to Title IX. A pregnancy accommodation request form can be found at <https://westminsteru.edu/about/title-ix.html>.

If you wish to make a report directly to the Title IX Office, please complete the online reporting form located on <https://westminsteru.edu/about/title-ix.html> or contact Kellie Gerbers at 801-832-2494 or kgerbers@westminsteru.edu. The Title IX website contains more information about resources, rights, policy and procedures, and updated information regarding our Title IX program at Westminster University.

Student Care

Westminster University supports students through all aspects of their academic endeavors. Student care works collaboratively with campus resources to provide support for students who are in distress or who have been identified as exhibiting concerning or worrisome behaviors. Effective case management ensures that the community at large remains safe while the student involved gains the necessary resources to remain successful academically and personally at Westminster University. If you or someone you know is exhibiting concerning behaviors, please reach out to Chanté Jiménez, Director of Student Care and Special Projects, cjimenez@westminsteru.edu or 801-832-2496.
