

Wellness Statement at Westminster University

Westminster faculty care deeply about both your academic success and personal well-being. The University, and its faculty and staff, are all committed to advancing the mental health and well-being of students, while acknowledging that a variety of issues can directly impact students' academic performance. Westminster University's integrated approach to wellness empowers students to develop self-efficacy toward their own wellness, as well as that of the communities and social groups with which they engage. Through prevention and intervention programming, students learn how a holistic approach to well-being can help them discover health, contentment, purpose, and connection. Integrated Wellness at Westminster encompasses social, intellectual, emotional, spiritual, physical, environmental, and financial health. When students feel supported, they do better in class, get involved on campus, and feel healthier overall. Students can access care when they need it, whether that's face-to-face or online with a trusted professional. Students can also participate in wellness-focused programs across campus to help them take care of their minds and bodies. Whatever your wellness journey looks like, Westminster has you covered.

For help, more information, to get involved, or to access services, please use the following resources:

Integrated Wellness (includes Medical Services, Mental Health Services, and virtual TimelyCare Services)
Crisis Services